Fox National News Features USA Technologies' e-Suds? Online Laundry System

American University Students, Administrators Praise Innovative Technology

MALVERN, Pa, May 19, 2006 - e-Suds, USA Technologies' (OTC Bulletin Board: USAT) online laundry service, is featured on Fox National News for its innovation and user satisfaction.

USAT announced today that the Fox News report was filmed at American University, Washington, DC, one of many colleges that have already installed the new online laundry service, which is rapidly spreading across America.

"The recognition by Fox National News of our unique online laundry technology is high praise, and validates our leadership in developing innovative technologies to network every-day devices and drive new business opportunities," said George Jensen, Chairman and CEO, USA Technologies.

The television report was produced by Fox News in New York and distributed to national and local affiliates.

e-Suds allows college and university students to go online to see what washers and dryers are available in their laundry rooms, pay for the service by swiping their college ID card and be notified by email or text message when the laundry is done.

The University administrator reports that as soon as the e-Suds laundry service was operational, the university noticed an increase in business and customer satisfaction.

A student discusses how much students enjoy the online experience, freeing them up from the drudgery of doing their laundry, and making better use of their time.

e-Suds is already installed in 15 universities across America, including Rutgers, Temple, Case Western Reserve and Carnegie Mellon and has several campuses committed to installing e-Suds this summer.

"We are giving students what they want - greater convenience, ease of use, better use of their time, and we make doing the laundry a more interesting experience. We are already receiving an astonishing 50,000 hits a day on the e-Suds website, from students using the service," said Mr. Jensen.

There are an estimated 1.3 million washers and dryers in the United States and approximately 700,000 are located in college and university laundries. For more information about e-Suds, visit our website.
